Information for the applicant of an LTC or FID

The most common reasons for denial of an application for a License to Carry Firearms (LTC) or a Firearms Identification Card include:

1. Having a disqualifying criminal record (convictions)
2. Falsely answering any question on the application
3. Falsely answering any question to the Licensing Officer during interview
4. Omitting prior court appearances from the application as required

The Licensing Authority will access any and all records of detentions, arrests, court appearances, juvenile adjudications, and any "SEALED" records to determine the suitability of all applicants for any firearms license. After reading this form you will be asked specific questions regarding mental health history, past criminal history, and other personal background information. You must answer all questions fully and truthfully. If you fail to do so, your application will be denied.

Please note in particular that you will be asked if you have ever been arrested or "appeared in court as a defendant". You must disclose any time you were at court as a defendant in a criminal matter, whether you were arrested or not. This includes any appearances, adult or juvenile, regardless of disposition (not guilty, continued without a finding, dismissed, etc.) no matter how long ago you appeared in court. You must also disclose any sealed records.

Having been arrested or even convicted of a crime does not necessarily prohibit you from obtaining a Firearms License; omitting this information certainly will. If you provide a false answer, or omit information from the application, your application will be denied and you may be charged with a crime (MGL c.140, sec.129B(8), 131(h)).
